Useful Tips

In accordance with DW172 regulations please observe the following:

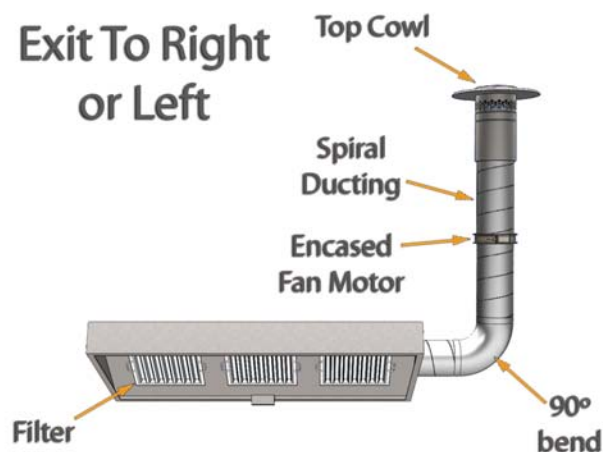

A 250mm overhang should be allowed to the left and right of all your cooking appliances.

You should also allow a 300mm overhang to the front of all your cooking appliances where a combi oven is not in use.

The overall size should therefore be the equipment size plus the overhang.

Useful Tips with Combi

In accordance with DW172 regulations please observe the following:

A 250mm overhang should be allowed to the left and right of all your cooking appliances.

You should also allow a 600mm overhang to the front of all your cooking appliances where a combi oven is in use.

The overall size should therefore be the equipment size plus the overhang.

If you require any additional parts just give us a call.

External Fan Systems

This is a minimum system, you can then choose any additional components.

Integrated Fan Systems

If you are pushed for space or are only using electric appliances, then this affordable option should be the one for you. Choose your size and then be assured the fan is internal of the canopy for a space saving option that's hard to beat.

Condense Hood

If your kitchen is getting too steamy then consider one of our condense hoods to direct the flow correctly, usually over sinks, dishwashers and pot wash areas. We can fabricate to any size.

LIFE WORKS COMMUNITY

Eddie Maintenance Manager of Life Works Community in Old Woking contacted CKD regarding an extraction he had in use, which had been installed 18 months previous.

Eddie's problem was that the fan was not working efficiently causing excessive smoke in the kitchen area leading to uncomfortable conditions for the chefs and smells throughout the community centre. He had also been given several solutions and quotes for repair of the gas interlock system which ranged from £350.00 to £560.00 which he thought to be excessive.

Eddie contacted CKD, we carried out a site survey and found that the canopy was only 800mm deep and that the fan which was positioned in a small loft space two floors up, was not efficient enough to pull the smoke from the kitchen area and the fact that it was not accessible meant that it had not been cleaned making the performance of the fan worse.

The solution to the problem was to replace the canopy with a 1000mm deep canopy take the extraction out of the right hand side of the canopy through a window and up two stories terminating with a cowl 1mtr above gutter level. The problem with the gas interlock system was very simple the pipe leading to the pressure flow switch was kinked not allowing the flow of air through.

ROYAL AIR FORCE

Mr A.F.Whittaker Community Development Officer contacted CKD regarding an extraction system in their canteen at RAF Wyton in May 07.

Adrian's concern was that he had received several quotes from extraction companies and all the quotes went well beyond his budget. His other concern was that the companies did not carry out work at weekends and those that did, wanted to charge extortionate amounts to carry out the work over the weekend.

Adrian contacted CKD after seeing our website on Google. We arranged for a site survey, priced the works up and consequently were awarded the contract.

The works were carried out on a Saturday well within budget, satisfying the customer with a quality extraction system, meeting their installation time and most of all ensuring they met their budget.

As a consequence we have priced up the installation for an extraction system at RAF Henlow and other sites in the RAF. We delivered a service to the RAF which have difficult requirements and have now proven ourselves as a supplier of choice.
